The Best of Milan Design Week 2019, Part III — Salone del Mobile

by Jill Singer

We're devoting all of our coverage this week to the 2019 Milan furniture fair, from the best things we saw around town, to the best of this year's Euroluce show, to the up-and-coming designers and new brands we discovered along the way. Today we're sharing the best launches from Salone del Mobile, the 2.5 million-square-foot fairgrounds outside the city (of which we covered mayyyybe 150,000 square feet?). Some of our favorites this year included the Bouroullecs' découpaged ceramic vases for Vitra, Stefan Diez's purple modular recyclable polypropylene sofa for Magis, and Michael Anastassiades's expressive track lighting system for Flos — possibly the first and only time we'll wax poetic about track lighting on this site! Scroll through for more of our favorites.
